

GUMMERE DENIES HALL KIN HEARING IN THEIR FIGHT FOR RELEASE IN BAIL

Simpson Demands Accused Be Kept In Jail for Jury

By H. S. DENLINGER

Henry Carpenter and Willie Stevens, cousin and brother, respectively, of Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, fighting through counsel for liberty on bail from imprisonment on charges of murder, received a severe setback in Supreme Court when William Gummere, chief justice of the New Jersey Supreme Court, refused to entertain their counsel's motion for bail.

Justice Gummere declined to "act as understudy for Justice Parker, in whose territory the murder was committed," and the defense was left with the problem of getting Justice Parker to return to Somerville from Bar Harbor to hear the plea for bail.

When Robert H. McCarter, head of the array of counsel handling the defense of the wealthy Carpenter and the eccentric Stevens, arose in court to ask Justice Gummere to fix bail for his clients, he did not get far.

Rapped by Judge

"Several weeks ago," Justice Gummere replied, "I heard an application to admit Mrs. Hall to bail. Justice Parker read about it in the newspapers and wrote me that if anything came up requiring his presence in Somerville, he would be glad to return there."

"It does not seem that I should usurp the functions which Justice Parker indicates he is willing to perform."

McCarter, taken aback, renewed his plea to Justice Gummere to hear the case notwithstanding, declaring he had not heard of Justice Parker's letter.

"You gave me no notice you intended to apply to me for bail," the justice replied tartly.

In Bar Harbor

"I inquired at the home of Justice Parker several days ago," McCarter explained, "and I was told he was in Bar Harbor and would not be back until Labor Day."

"Your Honor, the personal liberty of these persons is at stake. I hope you'll hear the motion."

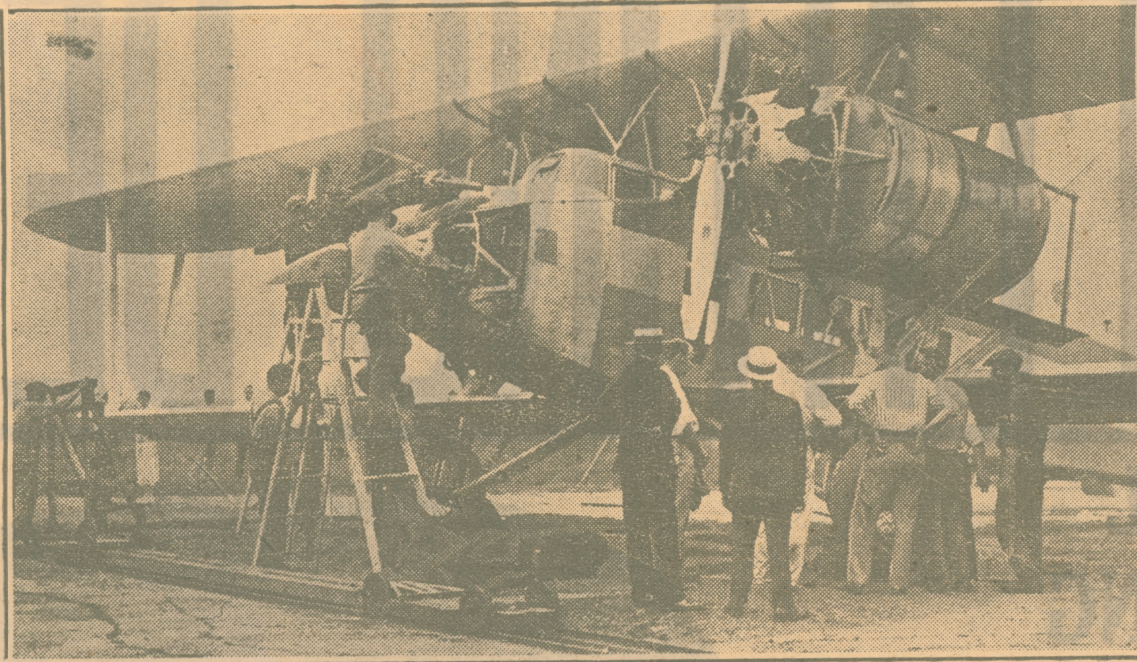

"If you had advised me you intended to use me as an understudy to Justice Parker, I would have advised you to get in touch with Justice Parker himself. Under the circumstances, I do not feel that I should hear this motion."

Simpson First Arrival

Simpson came into the courtroom, flanked by Francis Bergen, Somerset County prosecutor, at 9.45 a. m. A short time later McCarter, followed by Timothy

N. Y. Girl Braves Channel In 2nd Crossing Attempt

DOVER, Aug. 23 (By U. P.).—Clarabelle Barrett, swimming instructress of New Rochelle, N. Y., at 1.40 p. m. today began her second attempt to swim the English Channel.

Miss Barrett entered the water here, accompanied by Kathleen Huntley of Dover. The sea was moderate and the tide was expected to take the swimmer outside Goodwin Lightship. She used a crawl stroke at the start.

At 4 p. m., after two hours and twenty minutes in the water, she was estimated to be eight miles from the English coast.

Mrs. Clement Corson, a Danish-American swimmer from New York, departed for Cape Gris-Nez, France, Monday, with the intention of entering the water there at 11 p. m. in an effort to swim the Channel.

CAPE GRIS-NEZ, FRANCE, Aug. 23 (By U. P.).—Three women probably will battle the tides of the channel tonight in an effort to duplicate the feat of Gertrude Ederle, who early this month swam the channel in 14½ hours.

Lillian Cannon of Baltimore said today she would enter the water for her second attempt between 7.30 and 8 p. m. She will be accompanied by Mme. Sion, Jabez Wolfe, Jack Weidman, her trainer, Bill Burgess, and a party of English and American friends.

Miss Clarabelle Barrett already has started on a channel attempt from Dover.

Amateur Yeggs Work Long on Safe in Vain

Love's labor lost!

When the Heim M. Doremus shoe manufacturing plant at 325 Gold St., Brooklyn, was opened this morning clerks found that burglars had worked long and futilely to open the company's safe.

They ripped off the outer door, but couldn't get the inside door off and gave it up as a bad job. They secured nothing for their effort.

"Rank amateurs," said the police, as they took a lot of finger prints.

Flyers Jubilant As Fonck Plane Succeeds in Test

ROOSEVELT FIELD, L. I., Aug. 23.—The tri-motored Sikorsky plane which is to attempt to fly from New York to Paris completed a successful test flight of two minutes today. It was the first time the plane had been in a real flight.

The group of Russian refugees who helped Count Igor Sikorsky build it dropped their usual dignity and tossed Sikorsky in the air for five minutes after he brought the plane back to the field.

The ship, carrying half the load it will take on the transatlantic flight, climbed to 5,500 feet and responded to the controls with such ease that "we piloted her with our finger tips," according to Lieut. A. P. Snody, one of the aviators who will go on the transoceanic flight.

Boy Hero Dying From Kick Of Runaway Horse, His Pet

Alfred Fanduetolce, 10, of 579 Atkins Ave., Brooklyn, is in a critical condition in the Kings County Hospital as the result of a heroic effort to stop a runaway milk wagon horse.

The boy and the horse were firm friends. Every morning the youth had a lump of sugar for his equine pet, Don.

Hyman Mashowsky, of 1023 Dumont Ave., had stepped off the wagon to make a delivery. An automobile rushing by frightened the horse. Young Fanduetolce raced to the frightened animal and grabbed the bridle. He was badly kicked and forced to let go, with internal injuries and fractured leg. Pedestrians caught the horse.

Just before the boy lapsed into unconsciousness on the way to the hospital he turned to Dr. Gilmore and said:—

"Is Don all right, doctor? He didn't mean to hurt me. Don't let 'em punish him. I'm all right."

Bury Dog in Silver Coffin As Whole Town Mourns

East Orange, N. J., mourned the passing of "Shep," the 10-year-old collie belonging to Mrs. Charles Schudler, and set out today to pay him tribute.

"Shep" was the town's pet. He carried parcels, looked after the children and had all manner of tricks in his repertoire.

Hence one room of the Schudler home was crammed with flowers today. Mrs. Schudler had an undertaker embalm the dog and place the remains in a specially-built, silver-plated casket. The funeral will be held this afternoon, with burial in the Orange Mountains. A score of cars is expected to join the procession to the grave.
